IRRIGATION INVESTIGATION.

During the past year the agricultural department of the university in its work in irrigation has been making an examination of the waters of the principal streams which supply canals, samples having been taken daily in several places and the water analyzed. The investigation shows that the quality of the water is good and that the water of some of the streams supply crops with a considerable amount of fertilizing material as well as moisture. It is proposed to pay special attention to the question of water storage. Wherever it is thought a storage reservoir may be constructed, a preliminary survey will be made, to be followed by a more complete examination, and estimates will be made as to capacity, cost and other details if construction is thought practicable.

It is not the purpose of the department to make complete surveys for the work of building reservoirs, but to carry the work far enough to determine the desirability of the location and learn approximately the quantity of water that may be impounded with a dam of given height and length, with the idea of showing the possibilities in this direction.

It is believed that such such information, based on data that is of official character, may encourage critical examination that will lead to development.

An examination of the land that may be irrigated from proposed reservoirs will also be made with reference to fertility, undesirable alkali spots and other information that may be desired by those interested in promoting the agricultural interests of the territory. Correspondence is solicited and should be addressed to the agricultural department of the university at Tucson.

ADVERTISE THE TOWN.

There are times when advertising will do more than at any other time, and as it is with the individual so it is with the corporation, so it is with the city. The time for Phoenix to advertise is during the next six months. We are not alone in this idea, for all other cities in the west have become imbued with the fact that if they wish to keep up with the times they will have to let the world know what they have to sell.

St. Louis heads the list with a guarantee of $200,000 each year for five years, a total of a million dollars to be expended in advertising the city. Omaha's city council has just passed an ordinance appropriating $10,000 to be expended in advertising the city in the eastern papers. St. Paul and Minneapolis have set about displaying their advantages through the eastern press, and Denver has been appropriating large sums of money for this same purpose for several years. Los Angeles has just had big display advertisements in New York papers and Kansas City is making arrangements to tell the people who visit this country what she has to offer them.

If there ever was a time when advertising would do a city good, that time has come to Phoenix now.

HON. J. L. HUBBELL.

Hon. J. L. Hubbell of Apache county, member of the council, has been called home on important business, but up to this time has never been absent from his desk, and has been an untiring worker for the interests of his county and the territory.

Fearless in the right, vigorous and persevering, he has become one of the leaders in the council, and several valuable measures owe their existence to his support and vote.

Mr. Hubbell is one of the rising men in the territory and has made many friends and acquaintances who will be glad to see him promoted within his party ranks. He deserves well of Republicans and of the people, for it is men of the energy of J. L. Hubbell that make fertile fields of deserts, bonanza mines of boulders, and mills and busy workshops from the products of the herd.

MGR. SATOLLI, the papal delegate, decided recently, in a case appealed to him where Catholic parents were excommunicated by a Catholic priest for refusing to send their children to a parochial school that it is the right of parents to send their children to the public schools if they prefer to do so. This decision is in keeping with previous ones emanating from the same source. It goes to show that Mgr. Satolli is in sympathy with the progressive spirit of the Catholic church in America, which seems just now to have a strong friend and champion in Pope Leo himself.

MR. BREWER was in his seat yesterday after a severe illness. He is one of the brightest and most useful members of the assembly and his friends were pleased to see him in his accustomed place.

MR. HURLEY's bill for the protection of the schools against the dens of infamy should pass. It is one of the best proposed at this session.

THE WOMAN WHO EATS.

Nothing So Remarkable Has Ever Been Seen Outside the Museum.

Have you ever seen her—the woman who eats? asks the New York Recorder. If not you should, for outside of a museum nothing so remarkable was ever seen. She generally lives at a hotel run on the American plan and evidently feels in duty bound to take everything on the bill of fare in order to get her money's worth. It never occurs to her to skip one single thing, yet every meal she studies the menu with an interest as absorbing as though she were only to be allowed one portion, and that one she was determined to have the best. When this exhaustive survey is finished she leans back in her chair, looks up at the waiter in attendance with a coy, sweet smile and says: "I will commence with oysters." If there was anything ahead of oysters for her to begin with she would do so, for she is a systematic feeder and will go on religiously through soup, fish, entrees, roasts, vegetables, salads and desserts until the weary waiter confides to a sympathizing confederate that it is his private opinion that she is the India-rubber girl. When at last the finishing sip of coffee has been swallowed she dips her fingers in the bowl of water near at hand, gathers up what she has not eaten of the fruit and passes out, leaving the waiter to wonder at the appetite of a creature that looks above such mundane peculiarities, yet she leaves enough soiled dishes and crumbs in her wake to establish forever her reputation as a performer who would make her mark if an eating contest were ever arranged.

"SNOLLYGOSTER" AN OLD WORD

First Used in 1848 by a Vigorous If Profane Georgia Campaign Orator.

The word "snollygoster" was first used to describe a place-hunting demagogue, says Col. Ham, of Georgia, back in 1848, when the Niagara incident threatened war with England. There was a joint debate that year in a Georgia town between John Kelly and Jonas Gaines, rival candidates for the legislature, and Kelly spoke first. The chief plank of his platform, by the way, was that the president should seize all the roads to Liverpool so as to prevent a salt famine in case of war. After he had declaimed, with great effect on the necessity of plenty of salt, Gaines arose and spoke these well-remembered words: "Fellow-citizens, of there's anything on top side of earth that makes me mad, it's ter see a snollygoster of a feller a continually a swipin' aroun' after the orthography ov a little office what he kain't never git, and hain't got sense enough to fill if he could git it." Finally he reached the salt question, and raising himself on his tiptoes, he yelled: "Liverpool—huh!—North Carolina salt is a darned sight saltier, and there's a dozen roads to the works." Gaines won the debate and was elected.

Dance in the Sewers.

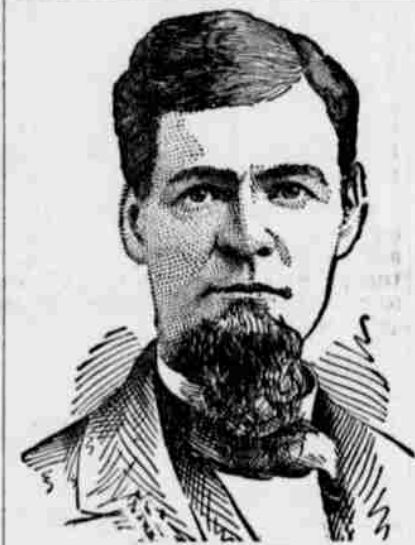

The world ought to be sufficiently accustomed to Parisian freaks by this time not to be startled by anything that happens in that gay town. Their last fancy concerns their annual charity ball. The Parisians thoroughly believe that any fete given for sweet virtue's sake should present the most novel and striking features possible in order to prove a great success. It is with this end in view that they are talking of holding their ball in the strangest of all places, nothing less than in big sewers. Fancy dainty dames putting their satin-slipped feet and trailing the frock of lace and chiffon in such an odd ball-room. But before they are allowed to enter the hands of able artists and skillful workmen will have transformed those unwholesome colonnades into enchanted bowers, Aladdin-like caves, and salons rivaling the Valley of Diamonds. The idea is truly Parisian, bizarre and eccentric, and ought to have success.

THE USE OF SLANG.

Is It More Frequent Among the Girls or the Boys?

A writer in the Baltimore Sun states that girls use more slang—especially if they are grown up—than boys do. Girls, it is affirmed, talk much more than boys, so that their stock of uncounted words is in more frequent use. It is also larger. If a boy were a mine of slang his taciturnity would keep it concealed from all but a few of his chums. His inventions are confined to a small circle, and his opportunities of borrowing are correspondingly diminished. Not so with the girl. The loquacity of her associates, aided by her own, spreads and multiplies slang with the greatest rapidity. She is more sociable. At school she is "thick" with a dozen and gathers in all the dozen know. And besides, says the same authority, girls are so reckless in the use of language that they give a slangy character to good English. With the girl at the period of girlishhood every good thing is "perfectly" so. She "never" does this and she "always" does that. She sometimes "feels hateful," but it is oftener some one else who is "perfectly horrid." Nearly everything is "awful." Such are some of the charges this abominable person brings against the sweet young creatures. Another authority flatly contradicts them all and says the boy is the sum of all villainies. The words he prefers, it is asserted, are so tinged with profanity that he cannot use them at home, and it is thus only that he gets his reputation for freedom from slang. Who can settle the dispute? We are of opinion that injustice is done to the girls. We are confident also that few boys are as bad as represented. It is possible that the so-called "authority" has been judging the whole world from his few unfortunate associates.

Stricken Down with Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. GENTLEMEN: I feel it my duty, as well as a pleasure, to publish, unolicited, to the world the benefit received from Dr. Miles' Restorative.

I was stricken down with Heart Disease and its complications, a rapid pulse varying from 90 to 140 beats per minute, a choking or burning sensation in the wind pipe, oppression in the chest, much pain in the region of the heart and lower ribs, pain in the arms, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, weakness and general debility. The arteries in my neck would throb violently, the throbbing of my heart could be heard across a large room and would shake my whole body. I was so nervous that I could not hold my hand steady. I have been under the treatment of eminent physicians, and have taken gallons of Patent Medicines without the least benefit. A friend recommended your remedies. She was cured by Dr. Miles' remedies. Have you three bottles of your New Heart Cure and two bottles Nervine. My pulse is normal, I have no more violent throbbing of the heart, I am a well man. I sincerely recommend every one with symptoms of Heart Disease to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies and be cured. L. L. CARMER. Sold on a Positive Guarantee. OR MONEY RETURNED.
